Apollo 11 Hurtles Toward Its Rendezvous With Moon

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The good ship Columbia hurtled deeper into space today, carrying three brave men unerringly toward a Saturday rendezvous with the moon and destiny.

Their target, a shimmering silver crescent, loomed larger and larger as their home planet shrank in the distance.

Spacecraft commander Neil A. Armstrong, Air Force Col. Edwin E. "Buzz" Aldrin Jr. and Air Force Lt. Col. Michael Collins planned a Saturday rendezvous with the moon and destiny.

They are to fire themselves into moon orbit Saturday afternoon and a day later Armstrong and Aldrin will be to fly a lunar landing craft, or LM, to the surface. Early Monday, they are to take man's first steps on another celestial body.

Today's major event occurs late in the day when Armstrong and Aldrin wiggle through a connecting tunnel into the LM, nicknamed Eagle, hitched nose-to-nose to the Columbia command ship.

'Make Choice,' Commissioners Say

Boyce Handed Ultimatum On Home Or Outside Post

LISBON — The acting superintendent of the Columbiana County Home has one week to make a choice between the county post and his full-time job in a Salem industry.

County Commissioners James W. Boyd and Charles J. Gause Thursday informed Robert Boyce the superintendency is a full-time post. "The choice is up to you," Gause said.

Boyce took a job at United Tool & Die, Inc., early this year after the commissioners suspended him Jan. 1-June 30 for alleged neglect of duty, particularly in the farming operation at the home.

Boyce retained the outside job when he returned to the county post July 1 and is working five and a half days a week at United on the afternoon shift.

His wife Gladys is home matriarch. On his return, Boyce employed as farm manager W. E. (Bill) Hiscoc of Lisbon, his replacement, during the suspension.

Commissioners Boyd and Gause questioned Boyce about the two jobs in their office at the Courthouse. Boyce said his attorney advised him to keep the outside job pending outcome of his appeal over the

President May Talk To Pair On Moonwalk

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon may talk to the two astronauts while they walk on the moon Monday, the New York Times says.

In today's editions, the Times says the White House telephoned the American Broadcasting System Wednesday about the possibility of such a hookup. ABC is coordinating pool coverage of the Apollo 11 mission.

"Sources close to the President" said the announcement could come today, the Times said. Daryl Griffin of ABC, producer of the pool coverage, said Thursday, "No one in the White House has called me."

For two hours they are to check the systems of the spindly-legged lander. Mainly, they will look for damage that might have occurred Wednesday during the jolting liftoff from Cape Kennedy.

Board Ends Inquiry Into Crash Of Ships

MANILA (AP) — The U.S.-Australian naval board investigating the collision of the American destroyer Frank E. Evans and the Australian aircraft carrier Melbourne ended its inquiry today and sent a secret report to the two navies.

U.S. Rear Adm. Jerome H. King, senior member of the board, said the panel's specific findings would not be released now, but he praised the heroism and "actions far beyond the call of duty" shown by men of both ships.

The Melbourne sliced through the Evans before dawn on June 3 while the two vessels were taking part in Southeast Asia Treaty Organization maneuvers in the South China Sea. The forward half of the destroyer sank, and 74 Americans were lost.

If they find major damage, they will cancel their landing plans. However, mission control officials say, chances of this are remote.

Still a mystery was the Soviet Union's unmanned Luna 15, orbiting just 71 miles above the moon's surface. There was speculation that today or Saturday it might detach a capsule which would land, collect soil samples and take off to rejoin the mother ship for the trip back to earth.

American experts said such a maneuver would be a great technological feat. They feel the Soviet purpose in such a maneuver would be to demonstrate they can return rocks to earth automatically and less expensively than the $355 million Apollo 11 mission.

Dr. Elbert King, curator of a laboratory in Houston where the Apollo 11 moon samples will be studied, said the rumored Luna 15 plan would be like "grabbing in the blind." He noted Armstrong and Aldrin were well trained to pick up meaningful

Water Foes Skip Appeal In St. Clair

LISBON — For the first time in nearly two years there is no litigation on file to prevent the County Commissioners from proceeding with construction of the proposed $620,000 St. Clair Water System.

The deadline for appeal from a Common Pleas Court ruling barring Robert Bertchy and some 370 other opponents of the project from going any farther with injunction action passed at 4 p.m. Thursday.

County Commissioners will confer with Squire, Sanders & Dempsey, their legal counsel in Cleveland, on steps to re-advertise for bids.

Hanoi May Release 3 Yanks In 2 Weeks

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — An American peace worker said today that three American prisoners of war scheduled to be released by North Vietnam may not leave Hanoi for another two weeks.

Rennard C. Davis, 28, leader of the four-man peace group that arrived today on the way to Hanoi, said he did not know how long formalities would take but added, "It could be two weeks."

Ohio House OKs Capital Funds Bills

$414 Million Will Ensure Bond Issue Money Approved

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio House passed a $414.7 million capital improvements package as the legislature recessed Thursday for the weekend.

A light House agenda is in store next week as it waits for the Senate to catch up. Only skeleton House sessions will be held Wednesday and Thursday.

Bills making up the capital improvements package primarily implement bond issue money already approved by the voters.

House Speaker Charles F. Kurfess said this will assure the state meets vital needs in the areas of education, highways, water pollution control and mental hygiene.

Only one of the bills met with Democratic opposition. It passed 56-32.

That measure provides for creation of a Public Facilities Commission that could issue revenue bonds and obligate state agencies to pay their costs if the legislature refused.

Rep. David L. Headley, D-96 Barberton, called it "an unjust, unfair delegation of legislative authority. You'll have reason to regret it," he said.

The commission would be made up of representatives of the governor, attorney general, auditor, secretary of state and finance director.

Headley feared it would be administration controlled.

The package now goes to the Senate, where two of the bills originated. The Senate, however, must concur in House amendments before they can go to the governor for signing.

The House also approved 86-0 a bill to extend the deadline flood - stricken Ohio property owners can ask for a tax reduction from July 1 to Oct. 1.

The floods and storms hit northern Ohio July 4. Property owners would have to wait a year for any reduction if temporary legislation is not approved.

Proclamation Issued Here On Moon Walk

Mayor George E. Willshaw today issued a proclamation setting aside Monday in East Liverpool as a "day of participation" in the U.S. astronauts' landing and exploration on the moon's surface.

Following a suggestion made by President Richard A. Nixon, he issued the proclamation asking the community to join in the observance. The mayor's proclamation referred to the astronauts' proposed moon walk as "one of the major landmarks in the history of mankind, on a par with Columbus' voyage of discovery and the establishment of our Republic."

The mayor announced Thursday that City Hall offices would be closed Monday as part of the "day of participation" requested by the President.

It Was All In Fun

TUNBRIDGE WELLS, England (AP) — Eva Brunson had a row with her husband and put this card in the window of her newsstand:

"Husband for sale (second hand) — offers, inquire within." Mrs. Brunson told inquirers that her spouse, Harry, was a 48-year-old civil servant, "part worn, but good - looking, with no gray hairs."

"It was all done in fun," she said. "I wouldn't really consider any offer for Harry. Not even for a million pounds."

"He has a wonderful sense of humor..."

As Link To Surtax Extension

GOP's Leaders Claim Votes To Beat Tax Reform

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican leaders say they have lined up all 43 GOP votes against any tax reform amendments to the surtax extension bill.

And they claim enough Democrats will vote with the Republicans on individual issues to insure that all amendments can be beaten.

For example, the Republicans say there obviously will be enough Democratic votes from oil-producing states to help them defeat any proposals to cut the oil depletion allowance.

The main problem confronting the Republican strategists, however, is how to get the surtax bill before the Senate for debate.

They triggered a direct confrontation with the Senate Democratic leadership on the issue Thursday by forcing the House-passed surtax extension measure out of the Finance Committee.

Two Democrats, Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico and Abraham A. Ribicoff of Connecticut, joined with the seven Republicans on the panel to get the bill approved 9-8.

They declined to consider a single tax reform amendment. But Majority Leader Mike Mansfield and his Senate Democratic Policy Committee have insisted a full program of tax reform must accompany extension of the surtax.

After the committee's action, Mansfield said flatly his position had not changed.

The two Republican senators directing the fight, Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and John J. Williams of Delaware, senior GOP members of the Finance Committee, said their tactics Thursday were necessary to try to make sure that the surtax is extended next month before the congressional summer recess.

The Democratic leaders argue that once the surtax is continued enthusiasm for reform will drop sharply.

But many Republicans say they will vote for reform on a later bill.

Williams will manage the surtax bill in the Senate since Finance Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., has declined to do so. Long voted against Thursday's fast approval, saying there should be some committee consideration of reform on the bill.

Williams said he was confident the issue can be brought to a head in the Senate late this month or in early August.

Seek New Secret Session

ABM Foes Dash Early Vote Hope

WASHINGTON (AP) — Opponents of the Safeguard missile defense system have dashed hopes for early Senate voting on the issue by announcing they will seek another secret session to resume what some senators were calling "the battle of charts."

Both sides hauled out charts to illustrate their arguments Thursday during 5 hours and 45 minutes of Senate debate behind closed doors.

As the rare secret meeting was nearing an end, Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., said he would seek a second closed meeting within 10 days.

And when a reporter asked if the Senate could complete action by Aug. 13 recess on the $20 billion military procurement authorization bill which contains the Safeguard funds, Mansfield said "It's going to be close."

The silent session, according to senators going in and out of the chamber, was marked by some sharp questions and answers, heated debate and even some shouting, plus a battle of "charts" by proponents and opponents of the antiballistic missile-ABM.

Symington finally got a chance to show the chart he says indicates that, even if it works perfectly, Safeguard would provide little additional protection for U.S. intercontinental ballistic missiles. Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., countered with pro-Safeguard charts provided by the Pentagon.

"The Pentagon outdid Symington a little bit with bigger charts, colored, and with clear overlays," said Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., "Symington just had a clear simple chart."

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, an ABM backer, termed the battle of charts "a stand-off."

"I'm a realist," said Jackson. "I don't think the senators changed their minds one way or another. But it gave the opportunity to discuss the total sense of the problems involved."

Likewise, Symington said "I think everybody's pretty well made up their minds."

Offices To Mark Holiday

Monday Closings Planned In Moon Landing Tribute

Area post offices and many other municipal, federal, state and county facilities will be closed Monday in observance of President Nixon's call for special observance of the anticipated lunar landing.

However, most stores and financial institutions in East Liverpool and in other surrounding communities will remain open for business.

Post offices throughout the nation will observe the "National Day of Participation" Monday.

Postmaster Samuel W. Brown said locally that Station "A" and Calcutta will be closed entirely, with pickup from the boxes in front of both places.

Incoming special delivery and perishable items will be delivered. Mail will be picked up from the drop boxes on an augmented holiday schedule.

Scattered Showers May Help Ease Heat

Scattered thundershowers due over the weekend could mean the beginning of a break in the heat wave.

The humid weather will continue tonight, however, and the forecast calls for little change in temperature Saturday.

Sunday will be partly cloudy and not as warm with a chance of showers.

The five-day forecast then calls for cooler the first of the week.

State Park Money Cut From Plans

Measure Doubles Appropriation Due Ceramics Museum

By JOHN R. THOMAS
Review Correspondent
COLUMBUS — A $400,000 appropriation for the purchase of additional land in Beaver Creek State Park, an amount contained in the original capital improvements bill, was cut out of a revised measure which won House approval Thursday.

However, the appropriations for the establishment of a museum of ceramics at East Liverpool was doubled — from $100,000 to $200,000 in the revised measure, which now must face Senate scrutiny.

Loss of the Beaver Creek appropriation dropped Columbiana County's share of the $415 million two-year capital improvements bill from $777,489 when introduced to $450,489 as passed by the house.

The museum at East Liverpool will be established in an existing building which will be acquired at no cost to the state. A part of the project, however, will require some rehabilitation of the existing structure.

Exhibit programs will provide interpretive displays of early East Liverpool ceramic ware, and its development and impact on the economy of the area.

The $214,500 appropriation or construction of a Bureau of Employment Services building in Salem was not changed from the original bill.

Presently the agency uses rented quarters for its Salem operation. The money would come from federal sources.

The third item for Columbiana County calls for approximately $35,989 for rehabilitation of the Rogers Honor Farm, which is under control of the Ohio Youth Commission.

The honor facility would house 12 juvenile delinquents when completed.

Final passage of the two-year capital improvements bill is expected in the Senate in the next two weeks.

30-Day Term Decreed For Dance Brawl

Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff today imposed a 30-day County Jail sentence on a youth who pleaded guilty to charges he assaulted three teachers - chaperones during an alleged brawl at a teen-age dance May 31 at the former Klondyke School.

The penalty was imposed on Danny Pridemore of 1812 Michigan Ave., one of three youths charged in connection with the alleged incident.

Pridemore entered guilty pleas through his counsel to charges of assault on each of three teachers, Stephen Craig, Paul Boggess and Miss Susan Moore. The court imposed a 30-day term in each case, but said the sentences will run concurrently — all will be served at the same time — rather than consecutively. Pridemore also was ordered to pay the costs in each case.

The first defendant in the case was tried June 11. Roger Maxwell of 1809 Michigan Ave., charged with assault on Boggess, was given a 30-day jail term and fined $75 and costs.

Before pronouncing sentence on Pridemore, the judge reviewed the testimony heard in the Maxwell case. He also took a brief statement from Boggess.

Boggess told the court a youth entered the building and engaged in a fight with another boy. After he was ejected, he returned with several other youths, Boggess said. When one of the youths struck Miss Moore, it precipitated a general melee in which the three teachers were struck, he said.

The DOCTOR

Says

Double Vision Can Have Various Causes

Q — What causes a person to see double? When I watch television I see two pictures instead of one.

A — Double vision in one eye may be due to a dislocation of the crystalline lens, corneal irregularities or partial scale and the scale collapses retinal detachment. With both eyes open, double vision normally occurs if you hold a finger close to your eyes and look into the distance, and abnormally when one of the muscles that controls the movements of the eyeballs is paralyzed. If it occurs only when you watch TV, your antenna may need adjusting.

Q — Is nearsightedness inherited?

A — Nearsightedness may be hereditary or acquired through excessive use of your eyes for close work with poor illumination.

Q — Would reading while lying down or in a moving vehicle harm one's eyes? If so, how?

A — Reading while lying on your back or in a moving vehicle will probably do no permanent damage but will cause ocular fatigue and should not be done for prolonged periods.

Q — If the eyes are failing, would it help to have my glasses changed?

A — Since there are several causes for failing vision, you should have a complete eye examination, including ocular tension. A need for new glasses is only one of the possible causes.

Q — I lived in India for two years and contracted trachoma. Although I have been treating it for 18 months, it is not cured. What do you advise?

A — Such antibiotics as penicillin, tetracycline and erythromycin in eye drops used for two or three weeks usually cures this potentially blinding disease.

Q — With all the advances made in medical science, why is a broken hip still a permanent injury?

A — Great advances have been made in the treatment of all fractures, including those of the hip, so that in most victims the disability is far from permanent.

In elderly, and occasionally younger, patients, however, such complications as non-union, demineralization of the bone and infection in the marrow canal may cause an imperfect result.

Q — In a recent column you said that excessive coffee drinking could damage the heart. Is this due entirely to the caffeine in the coffee? Would drinking decaffeinated coffee eliminate the danger?

A — Yes to both questions.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M. D., in care of The Review. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

PXs Increase Prices

GI Discovers Inflation Eats Some Of Pay Boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — The GI who went to the PX to celebrate his new pay raise has found the inflation wracking the nation's economy has filtered down to the cost of his hamburger and coffee.

A spokesman for the Army and Air Force Exchange Service said the price hikes had been planned for some time and just happened to coincide with the pay raises which went in effect July 1.

"The timing was unfortunate," the spokesman said, while contending the price increases were overdue.

He claimed the exchange system is only now digging out of a $90 million debt caused by the Vietnam buildup.

Service men, who received an average 12.5 per cent pay increase, will be charged twice as much for a cup of coffee and up to 40 per cent more for a hamburger.

In cash terms, this means a GI will pay 10 cents for a cup of coffee that used to cost him a nickel, though he now will be able to get a refill free.

Hamburgers that used to be priced at 25 cents overseas and 30 cents at U.S. bases will now cost 35 cents.

Other price hikes have been ordered for such snackbar favorites as milk shakes, hotdogs, cheeseburgers and beer.

Though the increases amount only to a few cents, they impact heavily on the lower paid enlisted men who like to patronize snack bars to get relief from mess hall food.

The Nixon administration currently is conducting a high level study of ways to make service life more attractive to bring in more volunteers and reduce reliance on the draft.

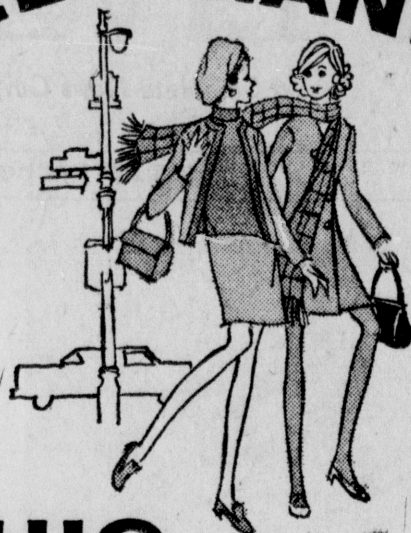

But officials noted inflation had been exerting increasing pressure on prices.

Also, they said that the Exchange Service had gone into debt because of Vietnam.

The Exchange Service operates like a business, rather than from appropriated funds.

It meets its expenses through sales, and if it nets a profit, that money goes into service welfare and recreation programs.

Provisional Cease-Fire OK'd

Outlook Better For Halt To War In Latin America

El Salvador and Honduras have agreed again to a provisional cease-fire in Latin America's first war in 34 years, and today the prospects for a halt in the fighting looked better.

El Salvador Foreign Minister Francisco Jose Guerrero said the cease-fire, organized by the Organization of American States, would go into effect at dawn today. He said this word had been sent to the command posts at the three fronts on which the Salvadoran army invaded Honduras.

Guerrero made clear, however, that his government had not signed an agreement for a permanent cease-fire, but Latin American diplomats in Washington were reported putting final touches on peace documents for the two warring neighbors. Honduras and El Salvador had agreed to a temporary cease-fire Wednesday night, but this collapsed Thursday. Meanwhile, a peace team from the OAS negotiated without letup in the capitals of the two countries, and late Thursday night OAS Secretary-General Galo Plaza announced in Washington that El Salvador and Honduras had agreed to the basis for a negotiated settlement.

The peace plans call for a cease-fire accompanied by the withdrawal of all Salvadoran forces from Honduras, guarantees for the safety of the more than 275,000 Salvadorans living in Honduras, and the stationing of OAS observers in both countries to guard against violations.

The resolutions were expected to be voted on in Washington today by the OAS Council. Holguin's group was in constant telephone communication with the OAS peacemakers shuttling back and forth between San Salvador and Tegucigalpa, the capitals of the two warring nations.

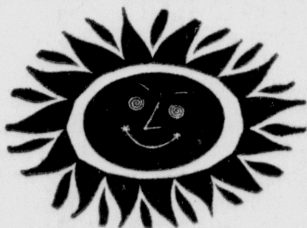

While the negotiating went on, El Salvador's larger, better equipped army made new advances in western and southern Honduras Thursday, and the Hondurans said their little air force hit back at several points.

There was no official word on casualties in the four-day-old war, but informants in Tegucigalpa said close to 1,000 Hondurans had been killed or wounded. The Honduran government radio began broadcasting long lists of soldiers killed.

There were reports in Tegucigalpa of heavy fighting on two fronts and an almost unopposed Salvadoran advance on the third.

Honduras blamed El Salvador for breaking the temporary cease-fire that went into effect at 5 a.m. Thursday. It said Salvadoran forces launched an artillery attack six hours later near EKL Amatillo, in the southwest. The Hondurans said the Honduran planes strafed and bombed the Salvadoran positions in retaliation.

The war is the result of the migration of some 300,000 Salvadorans from their small, heavily populated country to Honduras, which is five times larger and has half as many people as El Salvador.

Marriage Reveals Woman

A recent column by Hal Boyle on how men change after marriage stirred wifely applause and husbandly howls across the land. "Why don't you tell what marriage does to women?" demanded indignant husbands. So—

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Nothing reveals a woman like matrimony. As every husband knows, a transformation begins in his bride soon after leaving the altar. And after a few years he goes around muttering to himself: "What happened to her? I can hardly recognize her as the same human being." Before the wedding there wasn't anything she wouldn't do to please him. After the wedding she started telling him, "Your trouble is that your mother spoiled you."

"If I don't know how to cook the things you like best, I'll learn to," she pledged before they plighted their troth. So what does she slap on the table for him tonight now? If it ain't hash or tuna fish casserole, it's a half-thawed television dinner.

She used to dress so trimly she was the pride of the block. Now she slouches around the house dressed as if she were trying out for a role as one of the three witches in "Macbeth." Formerly, he loved to talk by the hour with her. Lately, he feels he does nothing but listen while she talks to him by the hours. Was it only yesterday he liked to sit and hold her hands all evening? Today the only reason he grabs her hands is to keep from being belted while they're having a family argument. "I'll give you three tall strapping sons," she promised. So what has he got now? Three tall whiny, teen-age daughters, all of whom need a good strapping. "You'll be my pet forever," she told him when he was courting her. But who gets the most petting in the house now? Papa? no, indeed. The cat does. Mama also served the cat its meals more regularly.

"They say that behind every successful man is a good woman, and I want to be that good woman behind you," she whispered to him shyly before they

wed. Well, that was some years ago, and true enough she's behind him—but barking at his heels if he doesn't ask for a raise in pay every six months. When he carried her across the threshold of their new home after their honeymoon, she sighed happily, "I'll never want to leave here—it's heavenly." Now, if he objects at having to take her out two evenings a week, she informed him, "Well, Warden, I've got to break out of this jail sometime or I'll lose my mind."

"How can marriage change anyone so much?" he often wonders. But marriage didn't really change her. It simply revealed her. Nothing about a woman ever really changes but her mind. He simply married a girl just like the girl who harried his dear old Dad.

Jockey Speaks To Kiwanians Of Horses, Racing

"Winning a horse race is 99 per cent due to the horse and 1 per cent due to the jockey," the Kiwanis Club was told at a meeting Thursday at the Travelers Hotel.

Jessie Hammock, 32, who has posted 26 wins at Waterford Park this year, discussed his early training as a rider and answered questions from members concerning his track career and racing in general. Hammock, 5-foot-2 and weighing 103 pounds, said he began his training as a stable boy, and did not ride until he had put in five years in various positions. Today, a rider can work up to an apprentice position in three months, he said.

A native of Saratoga, Fla., Hammock told of the various requirements for jockeys, handicapping and horse traits. Asked how important a role a jockey plays in winning a race, he said very little, the horse who is capable of winning will win most of the time without special guidance from a jockey.

"A jockey has a bigger role in causing a horse to lose," he stated. Hammock was introduced by Harry Wright, Waterford Park public relations aide. Jim Locke, first vice president, announced plans have been completed for a public hole-in-one contest at Waterford Park Aug. 2-3 with a $500 prize, the prize to be split by the track and the Kiwanis Club.

Barbers, Cobblers Help To Raise Cane

HAVANA (AP) — Those working in the sugar cane harvest in Pinar del Rio Province are at least well shorn and shod.

A copy of the provincial newspaper "El Socialista" (4-11 edition) arriving in Havana late this month said that among the "volunteer" cane cutters were 12 barbers and eight cobblers who, "in their spare time," cut the hair and repaired the footwear of the others. The paper noted that with such workers in the San Cristobal camp the others did not have to lose valuable time by leaving the camp to obtain these services.

St. Christopher, as St. Kitts is formally known, was first visited by Christopher Columbus. It became the site of the first permanent English colony in the Caribbean. Captain Thomas Warner and a small band of settlers landed in 1624, fought off fierce Carib Indians, and cultivated sugarcane on the fertile coastal plains.

Reaching For The Moon

The historic moon landing mission is going smoothly and the world anxiously awaits the climactic, danger-filled lunar touchdown and surface exploration.

The big moment will arrive shortly. Monday when Neil Armstrong descends the lunar module ladder and steps out onto moon soil or whatever it is that the moon is made of.

The eagerness with which the world is following this almost unbelievable adventure will be rewarded during those spectacular minutes — provided a small black and white television camera operates properly.

If there is no malfunction, the world will share America's greatest exploration achievement along with the citizens who are footing the bill.

Astronaut Armstrong will be joined by Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. and their activities will be beamed back to earth for a couple of hours or longer.

The astronauts have warned that picture quality will leave something to be desired, but we have no doubt this is going to be one television show that won't be bothered by viewer complaints.

Only the third member of the Apollo 11 crew, Michael Collins, will have a television gripe and that is because he doesn't have a set aboard the command ship.

Pictures — even fuzzy ones — will help to bring the moon-landing story back to earth but still the mind strains to grasp the full scope of the voyage of the ages.

It is clear, however, that the Apollo 11 astronauts are blazing a path to new opportunity. Space exploration gives the world another chance at international cooperation and knowledge sharing.

Our hope and prayer for success extend to the three astronauts and beyond—to those who will be responsible for directing future application of the knowledge gained in the truly amazing story of space conquest.

Bridge Of The Future?

The importance of transriver connections for renewed development of communities along the Ohio River is obvious to residents of this area, only too aware of the economic and travel handicaps stemming from the closing of the Chester Bridge.

But noteworthy is the recommendation from a consultant for the Brooke - Hancock - Jefferson County Planning Commission to eventually erect a new bridge between Toronto and New Cumberland.

The Barton - Ashman Associates of Chicago has listed the bridge among other recommendations in a land use study in the three counties. Also suggested for the northern Jefferson County area are renewal of the dilapidated sections of Empire, Stratton and Toronto, and possibly establishment of an industrial park, along with a new residential and commercial development located on the flat ridge top area southwest of Empire.

The growing relationship between Hancock County and the communities on the Ohio side of "la belle riviere" and the need for revitalized expansion of industry, business, housing in the whole valley points up the importance of establishing a workable plan for the region and implementing it with hard work and a willingness to invest money which should reap a rich harvest.

A Simple Solution

An Illinois firm in the manufacturing field has come up with a solution (it hopes) to a problem confronting law enforcement officers—glue sniffing.

The company, which manufactures a quick-drying plastic glue used by hobbyists, believes it has found a simple and inexpensive answer to the problem. It merely adds a little oil of mustard to its glue which makes the glue decidedly unpleasant to sniff.

Although the solution seems simple, it took the firm's researchers several years to develop it.

If only our "think tanks" and researchers could come up with comparable solutions to some of society's major problems.

If only they could, for example, make the results of committing acts of international aggression or of crime in the streets as unpleasant as sniffing "mustard" glue.

If they could just kill the incentive for these acts as easily as they have suppressed the glue-sniffers' desire to get "high" on glue.

Something New In Water Safety

The storms which caused so much havoc in Ohio and on the shores of Lake Erie point up the need for better survival gear for those of us who travel on water.

We need to improve maritime safety.

A company in California has developed and is marketing a product which may be an answer to that need. It is called the Brucker survival capsule and actually is a very sturdy "lifeboat" with a novel shape.

IT IS A SPHEROIDAL CAPSULE which holds up to 28 people within its fully enclosed hull. The company claims it is unswampable. It comes equipped with its own air-purification system and is self-propelled.

The Coast Guard has approved it for installation on fixed structures such as offshore drilling rigs and efforts are being made to have it certified for use aboard ships.

The dome of the capsule, which looks like a large ball, is bright orange to make it easily visible and it is impregnated with radar-reflective material. Inside the craft there is a water pump, toilet facilities, radio, food and water. It is powered by a 40-horsepower diesel engine.

One of the capsules drifted for five days amid floating ice in Alaska's Cook Inlet and was recovered with only minor damage.

Breakthroughs In Farming

It was suggested recently that farmers might have to become electricians if an Ohio man's claim that "electrified soil" produces bigger vegetables proves true.

Now it looks as if they might also have to become pilots for aerial seeding of grains may bring about a major revolution in agriculture.

FARMERS IN THE SOUTH pioneered aerial seeding of rice fields 15 years ago and today it is estimated that 90 percent of all rice fields in this country are seeded by air. That would be nearly 2 million acres.

But now experiments with the aerial seeding of corn and oats suggests the aerial technique works just as well with these grains. The tests shown actual grain in yields and considerable saving of time in seeding.

In Kansas, one farmer reported it took only six hours to plant 300 acres in corn by air while it would have taken two men three days to do the same job in the conventional fashion.

So impressive have been the experiments with helicopters and small planes that manufacturers of farm equipment are concerned that, if the aerial experiments continue to succeed, much farm equipment will become obsolete.

Aircraft manufacturers, on the other hand, see an opportunity for expanded business just over the farm horizon.

THERE ARE SOME drawbacks, of course, as with many new techniques. One of the major problems concerns seed dispersal. The plants have a tendency to grow in clumps, making harvesting with combines more difficult.

And then it is impossible to cultivate for weed control. Instead, chemicals must be used to keep the weeds under control.

Nevertheless, aerial farmers may be the "new breed," agriculturally speaking, of tomorrow.

Jogging Up And Down

The activity known as outdoor jogging has been catching on throughout the country among men concerned about the present and future health of their hearts.

But along with the healthful exercise there often are some hazards.

For example, some of the joggers confess that the stares bestowed upon them by fellow citizens as they jog along the city streets or in the parks make them feel "like some kind of a nut."

Apparently they can even be mistaken for a purse snatcher or thief in flight.

But now a St. Louis physician has suggested an alternate type of jogging which, for the "thinner-skinned" individuals, may be just the thing—jogging in place.

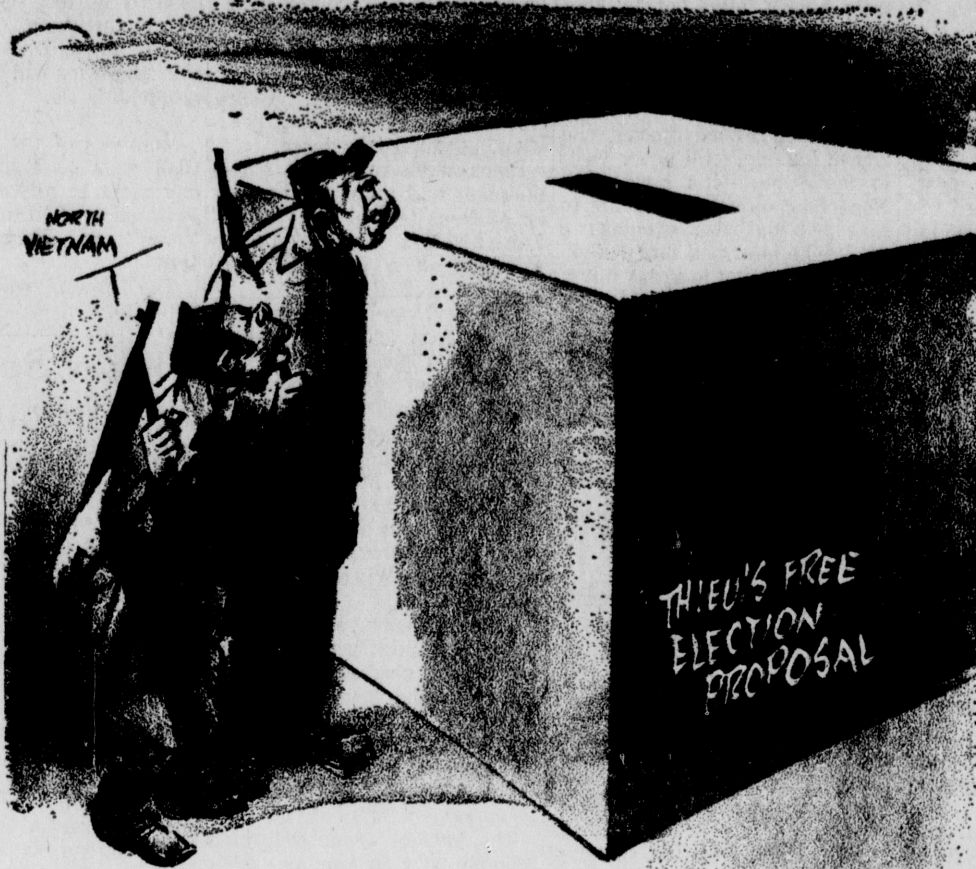

Dr. Richard A. Sutter, speaking to the Cleveland Rotary Club, said that running in place at home twice a day is just as effective as a deterrent against heart attacks as trotting around the neighborhood causing eyebrows to raise.

Pointing out that there are a number of known accelerators of heart disease, Dr. Sutter claimed, however, that the physically inactive man is twice the heart attack risk that the active man is.

The doctor's message seems clear. It's good to be active if, for some reason, the family physician has not counseled against it.

And you don't have to jog around the countryside to keep fit—just make like on a treadmill at home. But do it!

'Perfidious Treachery!
And, Besides, We Might Lose!'

Nixon's Troubleshooter

WASHINGTON — Among this nation's citizenry, a genial chap from Brooklyn named Leonard Garment is as well known as Whistler's father. Yet Mr. Garment is custom-cut to President Nixon's personal taste — low-voiced, close-mouthed, knowledgeable and a sophisticated swinger when he needs to be.

Quietly the good-looking, art-conscious, fortyish Leonard Garment, who smiles wistfully when referred to as a "Wall Street litigation attorney," moved into the White House late in June. To put him in a frame of reference for the middle-aged it should be reported that Leonard Garment might well be on his way to becoming the Harry Hopkins of this administration. The younger set might view him as a low-key blend of Bob Kennedy, Richard Goodwin and Arthur Schlesinger, Jr.

Officially Mr. Garment is special counsel to the President on the arts, voluntarism and minorities — reminiscent of a (Franklin) Roosevelt aide, Dave Niles. Also just as officially, Mr. Garment is a one-man early warning system — since he was named head of the transitory-sized National Goals Research Staff.

Thus he, in a few weeks, has become a trouble watcher as well as a troubleshooter.

lege by playing the clarinet and sax with Woody Herman and Henry Jerome.

Leonard Garment would be better described as an independent. When in 1968 he registered to vote, he marked his cross midway between the Republican and Democratic circles. This voided his ballot. So he's not now enrolled in any party. For the moment his official residence is in the suddenly posh Brooklyn Heights district of New York City, nestled between the Manhattan and Brooklyn Bridges. There on any clear day you can see among his neighbors such "in" fellows as Norman Mailer, Rod Steiger and Arthur Burns' brother-in-law Louis Waldman, the first of the famed law lawyers.

So, Leonard knows his way through the jungle. He came out of it with a sharp, laser-beamlike dark stabbing sense of search. And in Richard Nixon's loneliest days in New York, he would cross the bridge to play the piano to Mr. Garment's clarinet. They swung into political harmony.

WHEN THE PRESIDENTIAL campaign swung into fear, Leonard Garment became the candidate's talent scout and media man. He crossed all lines. There were late sandwiches with newsmen, lunch with Ted Sorensen and tete-a-tetes with the Peck's Bad Boy of the Kennedy White House — Dick Goodwin. Leonard Garment said he was searching for some new dynamics in government, some imagination, some swift departure from the norm.

Until a month ago he continued to practice law in New York and Washington. Then came the call from his former law partner, the President of the United States. Into the White House he went. Right now he's in Moscow at the film festival. When he returns, he will hit the "voluntarism" trail. If the labor front rises and inundates the White House, as it always has in past administrations, Mr. Garment is expected to rush up with the mop.

Leonard Garment is the newest man in the White House. And he has its oldest job — general assignment troubleshooter for the President of the U.S.

Marxists In The U.S.

WASHINGTON — Congress has the specific power under the Constitution to "suppress insurrections."

The Department of Justice has just issued a statement which includes a report by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. He declares that "never before in our history has there been such a strong revolutionary Marxist movement of young people so eager to tear down established authority."

The authority of the federal government, however, has been the subject of an unsettled controversy between those who insist there is no limit of the right of free speech and those who believe that it does not cover violence and rebellion.

THE FBI REVEALS the nature of the revolutionary movement and notes that law enforcement in the United States today is confronted with new and unprecedented challenges. Mr. Hoover asserts that it is apparent the "New Left" hopes to "lead a revolution ultimately designed to overthrow our system of government."

The FBI reports that seizure of campus facilities, destruction of university property and the use of organized terror and violence disrupted more than 225 of the country's institutions of higher learning during the last 12 months.

Fire bombs and other explosives, as well as rifles and shotguns, became familiar weapons in the 1968-1969 academic year. Mr. Hoover says:

"The activities of these student revolutionists resulted in over $3 million damage to educational facilities and more than 4,000 arrests."

The FBI director places the blame largely on the "Students for a Democratic Society," which is described as the instigator of much of the unrest. He adds:

"The 'SDS' remains at the core of the 'New Left.' Some time ago it abandoned the concept of 'participatory democracy' which it had championed in years past and eagerly embraced the principles of Marxism-Leninism, even to the extent of publicly announcing its new goal of revolution."

In so doing, it became the primary target for 'Old Left' takeover and today we see old-line Communists of every stripe seeking to seize and capitalize on the revolutionary zeal of the 'SDS.'"

Mr. Hoover also discloses that the increased activity of black extremist groups has added to the investigative problems of the FBI. He singles out one of them for specific comment as follows:

"Of these (groups) the Black Panther party, without question, represents the greatest threat to the internal security of the country. Schooled in the Marxist-Leninist ideology and the teachings of Chinese Communist leader Mao Tse-tung, its members have perpetrated numerous assaults on police officers and have engaged in violent confrontations with police in cities throughout the country."

Leaders and representatives of the Black Panther party travel extensively all over the United States preaching their gospel of hate and violence, not only to ghetto residents but to students in colleges, universities and high schools as well."

But what is being done to pass laws which will punish the instigators of violent demonstrations even though they themselves do not destroy any property?

EVIDENCE IS AVAILABLE to the Department of Justice to carry on extensive prosecutions. Recent decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States, however, have given such a wide meaning to the free-speech clause in the Constitution that there has been a hesitancy to ask for indictments of many of the demonstrators.

Congress, on the other hand, has the power to limit the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court. It also can stipulate by law the offenses which are part of an "insurrection."

The Constitution itself declares that treason — which includes giving "aid and comfort" to the enemy — is a punishable crime. Congress now needs to define what are treasonable demonstrations and what acts of violence really amount to "insurrection."

Through The Years

THIRTY YEARS AGO — William P. Bock, commander, and Harlan Finley, adjutant, of American Legion Post 4 were named delegates to the department convention in Akron.

Howard Smith was elected president during the reunion of the Hendrick family at Firestone Park in Columbiana.

TWENTY YEARS AGO — The resignation of Robert Dutton, backfield coach of the East Liverpool High School football team for three years, was announced by Supt. W. G. Fordyce. Wellsville Masonic Lodge 180 observed the 100th anniversary of its founding with a three-day program.

TEN YEARS AGO — Fr. Lambert Andrews, formerly of Windham, assumed his duties as pastor of St. Ann's Church in East End.

The 13th anniversary of the Rev. R. L. Latimore as pastor of the Second Baptist Church was observed with special programs.

Norman Rambo hurled a one - hitter which gave his team, the East Liverpool Merchants, a 4-0 win over Irondale.

Astronauts 'Loosen Up' In First Live TV Show

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — If they can string the cable that far, the Apollo 11 astronauts will take their television camera tonight when they float into the bug-like craft that will deposit them on the moon.

The quiet threesome of the astronaut corps apparently is trying to make a picture substitute for a thousand words.

It may have been coincidence, but after newsmen mildly complained that Neil A. Armstrong, Michael Collins and Edwin E. "Buzz" Aldrin Jr. weren't giving them many quotes, the astronauts loosened up a bit on their first live telecast Thursday night.

"We have no intention of competing with the professionals, believe me," said Collins when a ground communicator asked whether he was reading from cue cards.

"I'd have put on a coat and tie if I'd known about this ahead of time," Collins said.

Today's transmission is scheduled to begin at 7:32 p.m. EDT, but because the checkout of the lunar module is to start at 5:47 p.m., the telecast might begin earlier.

"We checked the cable lengths," Armstrong told mission control. "We're thinking we might want to see if we can take the TV into the LM with us tomorrow for part of the time." Mission control said that would be fine.

The lunar module is attached to the narrow end of the conical mother ship and the astronauts enter it through a tunnel.

From 150,000 miles out, illuminated by flashlight in the dimness of their cabin, the astronauts beamed to the world two vignettes that symbolize their voyage of discovery.

One was the American flag on Armstrong's left sleeve.

The other was their suit patch an eagle hovering over the cratered moon, talons clenching on olive branch; the earth now small and far back.

"It's pretty hard to see the olive branch," said Collins.

"That's what he has in his talons—an olive branch."

There was none of the clowning and in-jokes that characterized telecasts on previous Apollo missions. But the picture quality was the best ever—with closeups that showed even the small, flashing numbers on the instrument panel.

Aldrin did pushups rightside up, upside down and sideways in the capsule. In an earlier 52-minute test of the TV camera that reached only the Goldstone Tracking Station in California, all three astronauts exercised because they were curious as to how it would increase their heart rates.

When newsmen pressed Flight Director Clifford Charlesworth to get the astronauts to talk more, he said, "They're just a quiet crew. I certainly wouldn't want to backseat drive for them."

Somebody wondered what a quiet man like Armstrong might say when he makes his historic foot print this weekend.

"I would expect, said Charlesworth, "he'll call Houston and say that he's landed."

Riding Added At Y Camp

Horseback riding has been added to the schedule of events for boys and girls attending the YMCA camp this summer.

Joddy Plunkett of East Liverpool is shown getting a preview of the trail riding that will be a feature of the program today. Arnold Van Dyne, who lives near the camp, brought his pony, Ponto, over for Joddy to get acquainted.

Camp this week is for boys 8-11, and 59 are attending. Next week's camp is a Co-ed Midget camp for boys and girls 8-11. YMCA director Alan Millsbaugh said there is still time for more children to register and attend.

Another new activity this year is the craft period. Under the guidance of Ruth Ann Cunningham, assistant director at the camp, the children are making various items. Not only does this give them something of a moment to take home and the opportunity to work with their hands, it gives them a "quiet and restful" period after more active sports and activities.

BOATING, swimming, archery, riflery, nature lore, softball, volleyball, table tennis and basketball are some of the sports and activities offered.

The campers have skill sheets for each activity. They learn boating procedures, basketball techniques, and are given a grade on their skill.

Jan Burke is camp director and Millsbaugh oversees the operation.

Eight counselors are at camp this week. They include Dave Simms and Donald Miller of Wellsville, David Brown, Frank Densmore, Martin and Jim Pickens of East Liverpool and Joe Shultz of Midland.

Joe is probably unique as counselors go. He is 66-years-old and this is his first year as a counselor. He enjoys working with youth and since he has retired from his employment he now has the time. He is in charge of the riflery.

Cooks at the camp are Eleanor Bashaw and Mary Brown of East Liverpool.

Richard Reese of the Fredricktown Road is bringing seven horses to the camp for the trail riding Friday. Riding will be a feature of each camp. Millsbaugh said his only regret on the riding is the fee that has to be paid by the campers.

THE LAST day of camp, today, a special program is being planned for parents. The campers are preparing skits, and an outdoor candlelight service will be held.

Eight of the campers this week are children from families of low income or welfare recipients. They are being sponsored at the camp by service organizations of the tri-state area. Some will be attending each week if enough sponsors are found.

New shower facilities are also available at the camp this year. Two weekend camps for families are planned. Families may bring trailers if they desire. A place for disposing of wastes from the trailer is being prepared.

In addition to this week's boys camp and next week's co-ed camp, a midget girls camp for girls 8-11 is planned July 27 - August 1; girls 12-15, Aug. 3-8; co-ed boys and girls 12-15, Aug. 10-15 and boys 12-15, Aug. 17-22.

Family camping dates are Aug. 22 - 24 and Aug. 29-31. Anyone interested in any of the camps may contact the YMCA.

Collins' Children Have Lots Of Stories To Tell Campers

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Astronaut Michael Collins' children return to day camp today, with plenty of stories to tell other campers about their moon-bound father.

Kathy, 10, Ann, 7 and Michael, 6, were enthusiastic viewers Thursday night with Mrs. Collins at their home as the Apollo 11 crew made its first live space telecast.

"I thought it was pretty wonderful myself," said Mrs. Collins, who spent most of the day resting, sewing and receiving congratulations from neighbors. The children took a second day off from a YMCA day camp and played with neighborhood pals.

"Wow! that's fantastic!" Mrs. Collins exclaimed when shown an Associated Press photograph of Collins taken from the TV film.

"It looked great, very good. They all looked good," said Mrs. Neal A. Armstrong after watching the television program at her home.

Earlier she predicted in a front lawn news conference that the Apollo 11 crew has a "100 per cent chance" of a successful moon landing. She said she was "concerned but not worried."

The ability to get off the moon is the biggest thing.

Mrs. Edwin (Ed) Aldrin Jr., spent Thursday resting and keeping track of the spacecraft progress. Once she slipped away to buy a birthday present for a friend of her daughter Janice, 11.

She also watched the telecast in her home but had no comment.

Fluorescent dyes have been manufactured since World War II.

Presses Tax Reform Bill

House Unit Eyes Tighter Tax Rein On Oil Industry

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee has begun drafting tighter tax legislation for the oil industry, symbol to many of the special advantages embedded in the present Internal Revenue Code.

Pressing its drive to bring a comprehensive tax reform bill before the House before the Aug. 13 congressional recess, the committee reportedly has ordered a draft aimed at some presently-legal procedures that result in reduced taxes.

One of the currently legal procedures is a method of increasing a company's income in a single year so it can take full advantage of the 27 1/2 per cent depletion allowance, which is limited to one-half of income.

To do this, a company "carves out" a portion of its future production and sells this currently.

A different, so-called ABC transaction involves the sale of assets of one company to another subject to retrained future production payments. These, in turn, are sold to a third party, which can be a tax-exempt organization or a dummy corporation.

The effect is to reduce the income tax payable by the purchaser and enable the third party also to take a profit.

The draft legislation, it was reported, would treat both these kinds of transactions as loans rather than outright sales, greatly reducing the tax advantage.

The committee's decision whether to recommend cutting the 27 1/2 per cent oil depletion allowance is still to be reached. But even some ardent defenders of incentives for the oil industry concede privately the depletion allowance is likely to be scaled down.

The tax reform push, if successfully held to schedule, would help the administration's effort to clear an extension of the 10 per cent income surtax through the Senate before the recess.

The Senate Finance Committee approved Thursday, with unexpected speed, the House-passed extension bill.

However, it could be side-tracked on the floor by the Democratic leadership, which has insisted extension be accomplished by major tax reform.

Some British Press Items

Question Cost Of Apollo Trip

LONDON (AP) — Britons are wildly enthusiastic over the Apollo 11 mission to the moon, but there is an underlying note of criticism similar to that in the United States.

The British press is giving extensive coverage of the moon flight, but some articles and cartoons question whether the cost is justified.

The Daily Mirror described the plight of 7,000 people at Cape Kennedy who are officially below the poverty line and said the moon adventure involved a "mammoth perversion of energy, thought and other human resources."

Bertrand Russell wrote in the Times: "For my part, I should wish to see a little more wisdom in the conduct of affairs on earth before we extend our strident and deadly disputes to other parts."

Lord Arran, columnist and television personality, called the moon shot "a bloody waste of time." He said, "The lives of three men—all of them husbands with families—are being gambled on this incredibly risky venture."

The Daily Mail ran a five-column cartoon showing two starving Biafran children looking plaintively at the moon. One wail says: "Maybe they'll discover it is made of cheese, and bring some back for us to eat."

Chester Faces Damage Suits In Sidewalk Falls

NEW CUMBERLAND — The city of Chester has been named defendant in three civil actions in Hancock Circuit Court as the result of alleged failure to keep streets and a sidewalk in proper repair.

Glen H. Logston of Chester is seeking $15,000 in damages for injuries he contends were received after he fell on Alaska Ave. He claims the city allowed that section of the street in front of his residence to be out of repair. The fall occurred Dec. 29, 1968, he said, and resulted in permanent injuries and loss of wages.

Eileen B. Reed and Donald Reed of 335 Louisiana Ave. are Treated and released were Charles Mercer of 138 Center Ln., an employee of the Taylor, Smith and Taylor Co., a laceration of the left lower leg while at work; Charles A. Russell of 937 Myler Rd., employed by the Russell Electric Co., a lacerated right wrist on an air conditioner panel; Harold McDonald of New Manchester, employed by Fountain Circle Builders, a puncture wound of the right hand on a nail at work.

Death Awaits 2 Astronauts If They Become Marooned

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Death awaits the Apollo astronauts if they become marooned on the moon—and they know it.

For there is no rescue vehicle that could save them.

Even if another spacecraft was poised on the Cape Kennedy launch pad, it would take 10 days to reach the moon.

Astronaut Neil A. Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr., will fly with only a 43-hour supply of oxygen.

If, in landing, their lunar module becomes tilted more than 35 degrees, they cannot fire their ascent engine to rejoin the command ship orbiting above them. The trajectory would not be right. And they have no tools to set the LM upright. Even on the moon, the LM weighs 16,000 pounds, too heavy for men in bulky space suits to shove around.

The command ship, piloted by Michael Collins, could not come down, pick them up, and blast off again. It has neither the rocket engines nor guidance equipment to do so.

Were another Apollo spacecraft already in moon orbit, or near it, its LM with two men aboard couldn't pick up the castaways. There isn't room in the LM for more than two men.

The assurance going for Armstrong and Aldrin is that "engineering talent has been concentrated on reliability and basic designs," says Christopher C. Kraft Jr., director of flight operations.

A rescue vehicle would cost several times more than the

July 30 Hearing Set In 3 Charges

Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff today granted a continuance until July 30 in a trial for a man facing three charges as a result of the alleged theft of a truck Tuesday night.

James R. Lisk, 33, of Northside Ave., Pleasant Heights, is accused of theft of a truck owned by Ben Hipsley Motors of W. 5th St.; driving while under the influence of alcohol and operating a vehicle with an expired driver's license.

The charges were filed by Patrolman Charles Coen, who cited Lisk at St. George St. and Central Ave. The court continued the cases at the request of George Aronso, defense counsel. Lisk's $1,000 bond was continued.

Hospital Treats 2 Girls For Injuries

A Wellsville girl hurt on an outing and an area girl injured in a fall were treated at the Osteopathic Hospital Thursday.

Tammi Henthorne, daughter of Wayne Henthorne of Bell School Rd., sprained her ankle in a fall on porch steps at home.

Marci Brown, stepdaughter of David Halfhill of 406 Broadway Ave., Wellsville, suffered a laceration of the right foot on a broken bottle.

rocks and to leave those of little scientific value.

Although Luna 15 orbited close to the planned 69-mile-high Apollo 11 path, officials said the chances of collision are almost nil.

Armstrong, Aldrin and Collins reported no problems with Columbia.

"It's a beautiful machine," Armstrong reported.

A minor problem that had nagged the flight since just after liftoff was resolved Thursday when ground experts traced it to a sensor giving a faulty reading on an oxygen flow indicator.

"It must have got a jolt during the launching," an official said. "It's like driving your car over a bump and having the gas or temperature indicator knocked over to the side and getting stuck there."

A brief course correction firing of Columbia's engine was so accurate Thursday that another firing planned today was canceled.

As Apollo 11 coasted toward its goal, a quarter million miles from earth, mission control officials said Armstrong and Aldrin might start their exploration as much as 3½ hours earlier than now planned.

"It's within the realm of possibility," flight director Clifford Charlesworth told newsmen. "The answer to that is a function of what our status is when we get there, the status of the spacecraft and the status of the crew."

Eagle is to land on the moon's Sea of Tranquility at 4:19 p.m. EDT. Armstrong and Aldrin have several checkout and preparation chores, plus a four-hour rest period planned before Armstrong takes the first step on the surface at 2:21 a.m. Monday.

Charlesworth said the crew could expect to skip the rest period if they felt alert enough to face the potentially dangerous, demanding tasks planned during 2½ hours of outside exploration.

The astronauts Thursday night transmitted a 35-minute live telecast from their weightless home—20 minutes longer than scheduled.

They plan another 15-minute transmission start at 7:32 p.m. today, and may also relay a show from inside the LM when Armstrong and Aldrin transfer into the lander at 5:47 p.m.

Thursday night's program was the clearest ever sent from a spaceship. The first 21 minutes were devoted to a view of the earth from 148,000 miles away.

"You're seeing the earth as we see it in our left hand window," Collins narrated. "Just a little over half the earth. North America, Alaska, United States and Canada, Mexico and Central America."

Then he warned: "Okay, world. Hang onto our hat. I'm going to turn you upside down."

And, twirling the camera, he did. The blue-brown planet did a crazy turn.

"I'm making myself seasick, Charlie," said Collins. "I'm going to put you rightside up where you belong."

He was talking with the capsule communicator, astronaut Charles Duke, at mission control.

Then the astronauts brought the world inside their spaceship for a tour of the cabin. They showed their star chart, electronic calendar, computer kitchen and instrument panel.

Armstrong appeared upside down in his strange world. And Aldrin did pushups, first from the ceiling, then the floor, then facing the camera.

The flight continued to receive headline attention around the world and prayers were offered for its success.

"The Soviet people," the government paper Izvestia said, "wish that the courage and skill of the American cosmonauts now flying to the moon would help them successfully complete the bold flight and successfully return to earth."

Many To Get Holiday To Mark Moonwalk

Essential trades, from the aerospace industry to a diaper service, will work as usual Monday, but many public employees and some private workers will have a holiday to mark the scheduled moon landing.

The possibility of moving up man's first walk on the moon from early Monday to Sunday night, mentioned by flight director Clifford Charlesworth, would have no effect on the holiday.

President Nixon declared Monday a national day of participation hours after watching the Apollo 11 liftoff.

The New York and American Stock Exchanges will be closed. Most federal employees will be off, except those in emergency services. Many states and cities have given their employees a holiday.

But the Boeing Co., which built a booster rocket for the Apollo 11 mission, said, "Our other commitments are so pressing that it is essential that we remain on the job." A spokesman for the Lockheed Aircraft Corp. in Sunnyvale, Calif. said there would be no time off.

And the ABC Diaper Service in Minneapolis will remain on the job. "Our clients don't know the difference—they just have to have those diapers," said a company spokesman.

Most banks and retail stores across the nation also were expected to remain open. The International Longshoremen's Association, AFL-CIO, asked its 75,000 members to halt work on the Great Lakes and in East and Gulf Coast ports.

Astronauts May Bring Souvenirs For Wives

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Apollo 11 astronauts are expected to bring back a cherished souvenir from the moon for their wives, but the women prefer not to say what the items are.

"Yes, he took something very special for me," Mrs. Edwin E. Aldrin Thursday, "but I'd rather not say what it is."

"That's private," said Mrs. Neil A. Armstrong when asked if her husband was carrying a memento to her.

"I hope so, I expect so," said Mrs. Michael Collins when asked if her husband took a personal item on the moon trip to bring back to her. She said the identity of the memento was a secret.

City Youth Held In Burglary At Wellsville Store

A 15-year-old city youth remains in juvenile detention at Lisbon today following arraignment on two counts of delinquency stemming from a $387 burglary Wednesday of the Western Auto Store at Wellsville.

The youth apparently hid in the store until after closing, then took two .22 caliber pistols, two 30-30 rifles, a bicycle, two holsters and several boxes of ammunition, authorities said.

The theft was discovered when and employee, Cliff Howell, returned to the store and heard a noise. Investigating, he discovered the youth, who pulled one of the pistols on him and told him to "get in the bathroom and stay there," which Howell called Wellsville police. The burglary occurred at approximately 6:50 p.m.

The youth, formerly of Wellsville and on probation for May burglaries at Spangolis Lumber Co. and The Lamp Post both of 740 Dresden Ave., was placed in detention following denial on his plea by court authorities. The court appointed William Telzrow as his attorney.

He is charged with taking merchandise valued at $387, and assault with a deadly weapon.

Moore Issues 17-Point Call To Special Session

CHARLESTON (AP) — Arch A. Moore Jr. has issued his formal, 17-point call to the special session of the state legislature which begins Monday.

Moore referred to 13 of the items as "substantive" matters which will require more than routine consideration. He had announced nine of the items in the call last week. The other items, made public Thursday, resulted from recommendations by Moore's management task force.

The new items included constitutional amendment proposals to allow a governor to serve two consecutive terms, to create the office of lieutenant governor and to change the remaining elective posts in the executive branch to appointive jobs.

Constitutional amendments require two-thirds approval in both houses of the legislature and ratification in a statewide referendum.

THE other new items included those to:

- Change the name of the State Road Commission to the West Virginia Department of Highways.
- Abolish the planning division of the State Department of Commerce, a function which it is understood Moore wants transferred to the governor's office.
- Give the state authority to clear abandoned motor vehicles from public highways and property along highways.
- Moore earlier announced the legislature would meet Monday as planned, despite President Nixon's proclamation of a national holiday honoring the Apollo 11 mission.
- Moore's call included a proposed resolution to recognize and commend the moon flight.

Here is a complete list of the 17 items in the legislative call:

Legislation to encourage new industry in the state, including tax investment credits to new and expanding industry.

LEGISLATION to expand civil service to state employees.

Legislation to establish an elementary and secondary public school building authority, prescribing its powers, functions, duties and bonding authority.

Legislation to provide group insurance benefit plans for state employees.

Legislation to reorganize the Public Service Commission, granting its broader powers with respect to public water and sewer systems and public service districts.

Legislation to authorize the issuance and sale of $70 million worth of state bonds for building state roads and highways, authorized by the roads development amendment of 1968.

Legislation to give the governor power to transfer amounts between items listed in budgets for state spending units.

Legislation to revise state law governing horse racing.

Legislation to amend the State Code relating to collection of additional registration fees at state colleges and universities, creation of capital improvement fund and issuance of revenue bonds, fixing the wages of the stenographer of the prosecuting attorney of Webster County and to repeal inconsistent statutes.

LEGISLATION to propose and submit to the state voters constitutional amendments relating to the eligibility of a governor to succeed himself, providing for the office of lieutenant governor, prescribing the elective members of the executive branch of state government and constitutional amendments proposed by the legislature during regular session earlier this year.

Legislation to change the State Code relating to the State Department of Commerce Planning Division, concerning its duties as to recreational facilities, planning and coordinating.

Legislation to increase the bonding authority of the State Building Commission for additional expansion of the Capitol complex, for mental hospitals and facilities.

Legislation to change the name of the State Road Commission to West Virginia Department of Highways.

LEGISLATION to authorize the state to remove abandoned or derelict motor vehicles from public highways and from property along highways, and to amend and broaden existing statutes to accomplish this purpose.

A resolution to recognize and commend the Apollo 11 mission.

Legislation to amend the 1969-70 Budget Act by transferring spending units and by increasing appropriations for spending units where necessary.

Legislation to make necessary appropriations to pay the expenses of the special session and to appropriate public funds, where necessary, for the administration and implementation of the laws enacted during the session.

County Studies 2 Bids For Airport Operation

LISBON — The Columbiana County Commissioners and airport authority Thursday tabled two bids for fixed base operator of the new county airport under construction in Madison Township.

The proposals were submitted by Savors Aviation, Inc., of Negley and Cardinal Aviation of East Liverpool.

Copies of the bids are being made for forwarding to the Federal Aviation Administration and the Ohio Aviation Authority, and for distribution to airport authority members. The proposals will be discussed in detail by the Commissioners and Authority at 1:30 p.m. Aug. 4.

Savors offered to return to the county 10 per cent of tie-down fees and 60 per cent of hangar rentals if the Airport Authority builds the buildings. Otherwise, if Savors has to erect buildings, no revenue will be paid until the buildings are paid for.

Savors also offered 5 per cent of aircraft sales and oil sales, two cents per gallon of gasoline and two per cent of aircraft rental, ground school instruction, concessions and repairs.

Cardinal, headed by James N. Porter, East Liverpool architect, proposes to construct a bubble-type administration building with dining room and lounge, kitchen, restrooms, meeting room, shop, T-hangars, a picnic area and children's playground.

Cardinal offers to pay two cents per gallon on gasoline and 50 per cent of all net profits from airport operations after taxes.

Upon expiration of the lease, Cardinal specified buildings shall be removed from the airport or they will become the property of the county.

Airport Authority members present were Vaughn McMorrow of Wellsville, vice president; County Commissioners James W. Boyd of East Liverpool; Paul Daily of Lisbon RD, and Vincent Laneve, former president who resigned recently because his employment has taken him outside the county.

If four structures the size of the 1,472-foot Empire State Building were stacked on the floor of the Grand Canyon, only the television tower on the top one would poke above the North Rim.

John Pavlovic was best man. Rhett Maze of East Liverpool was usher.

The bride's mother wore a light blue dress and white accessories with a white carnation corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a beige dress, beige accessories and a white carnation corsage.

Youngstown Calm With Guards Alert

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—This racially troubled city remained calm early today under the watchful eyes of Ohio National Guardsmen called in to restore order after two nights of violence.

With guardsmen patrolling the streets only scattered incidents were reported Thursday night.

Eighteen arrests—11 for curfew violations—were reported. But most residents respected the curfew set by Mayor Anthony B. Flak, and there was no recurrence of the fire bombing, sniper fire and vandalism that rocked the largely Negro South Side area Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

Among those arrested was one person accused of violating a ban against sale of alcoholic beverages. Three others were charged with suspicion after police found fire bomb ingredients in the trunk of an automobile.

Police said a patrolman was injured when hit by a brick thrown from a building at an intersection on Hillman Street.

Also reported injured was a 45-year-old motorist who was hit on the arm by a brick at another Hillman street intersection.

The disturbances started Tuesday night outside an East Side market where a crowd of Negroes gathered to support the complaint of a woman who said she had been kicked by the owner of the store.

Gov. James A. Rhodes ordered the National Guard into the city early Thursday.

Some 200 guardsmen were on hand to help maintain order.

Moonwalk Won't Halt WVU Summer School

MORGANTOWN (AP)—Neil Armstrong's scheduled walk on the moon early Monday will close public schools, state liquor stores and all state offices but it will not shut down West Virginia University.

Gov. Arch Moore proclaimed Monday an official state holiday in celebration of the astronaut's moonwalk.

However, WVU President James Harlow said he cannot close the school on such short notice, especially since the second semester of summer school opens Monday.

Harlow said university employees who wanted to stay up late to watch the moon landing could arrange with their supervisors to come in late to work.

Appeals Board Clears Zoning Rule Variance

The City Zoning Board of Appeals, meeting Thursday night at City Hall, approved one request for a variance from zoning regulations and took another under advisement.

The board approved an application for a variance requested by Lucy A. Thomas to allow her to use a home at 515 E. 5th St. for a specialty bridal shop.

The board took under advisement the application of Mangano Enterprises of W. 7th St. to allow use of property on Dresden Ave. for new and used car sales and storage. The lot is a vacant tract adjoining the new Post Office. It formerly was occupied by the Faulk Building. The board said it will make a decision after receiving a brief which is to be filed by attorneys representing the firm which erected the Post Office.

Astronomers Mystified By Soviet Luna

JODRELL BANK, England (AP)—Jodrell Bank astronomers said today they are mystified by the performance of the unmanned Soviet Luna 15 orbiting the moon and have no indication what it was going to do next.

They said it appeared at present to pose no danger to the Apollo 11 mission.

Prof. John G. Davies said Luna 15's two-hour orbit took it "hundreds of miles, maybe a thousand miles" from the Apollo landing site.

Sir Bernard Lovell, observatory director, said Luna 15 remained in the close orbit, 62-75 miles above the lunar surface, that it went into Thursday and was transmitting bursts of radio data.

The continuing orbit was puzzling scientists here, the West's chief listening post on Soviet space shots. Along with unofficial Moscow sources, they had expected Luna 15 to land on the moon in an attempt to bring back a lunar soil sample before Apollo could do so.

Lovell said that so far the only feature of Luna 15 different from previous lunar orbiters was its precise injection into an extremely low orbit by means of a single firing of retrorockets Thursday.

Geraldine Ikert, 74, hospitalized in Fall

Miss Geraldine Ikert, 74, of 200 W. 6th St., remains in "fair" condition today at City Hospital after she was found lying on the floor of her home Thursday afternoon with injuries suffered in a fall Wednesday.

Miss Ikert apparently suffered a dislocated shoulder. Police said Mrs. Mary Karaffa, employee of a nearby diner who had been taking Miss Ikert's meals to her and checking on her welfare, discovered yesterday at 2:16 p.m. that she was lying on the floor in an upstairs bedroom. However, Mrs. Karaffa could not get into the house.

She notified the fire department. A fireman climbed through a window and then forced an interior door to gain access to the bedroom. Miss Ikert told him she had fallen Wednesday and had been lying there since. An ambulance was called to take her to the hospital.

Pollution System Set

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The Ford Motor Co.'s Brook Park Foundry will produce smoke in amounts far below present legal requirements when a $5 million air pollution control system goes into effect in the fall, the company reported Thursday.

Brother, Sister Plead Innocent

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. (AP)—Teen-agers Roger and Susie Bailey each pleaded innocent today to 12 counts of murder in the deaths of their parents and 10 brothers and sisters, all victims of a fire which they admitted setting.

Susie, 15, and Roger, 13, were accompanied by a battery of four defense lawyers when they entered their pleas in Wood County Circuit Court before Justice Donald F. Black.

There were indications the children would go to trial after the court's fall term begins in September, possibly with Judge Black's son defending Susie.

Worker Electrocuted

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—A Toledo Edison lineman, David Temple, 29, was killed Thursday when he touched a high voltage wire while replacing a transformer on the city's East Side.

DEAN SMIDDERKS

The camp director is R. P. Merkle of St. Clair Ave.

Psychiatric Test Due Brother Of Gasoline Victim

LISBON — A Wellsville area boy charged in Juvenile Court with setting his brother on fire will be taken to the Juvenile Diagnostic Center at Columbus next week for a psychiatric evaluation.

Judge Louis Tobin this morning granted a motion for evaluation submitted by Hyman Stern of Steubenville, counsel for John C. Baker Jr., 17, of Route 39 near Highlandtown.

The examination will take from six weeks to three months. A hearing on a "delinquent child" charge against the juvenile will be heard when Judge Tobin receives the report from Columbus.

John is charged with pouring gasoline on his brother Dennis, 15, June 20 following an argument over a chess game, and throwing a lighted match at him. Dennis remains in East Liverpool City Hospital.

Judge Tobin overruled Hyman's motion to quash the complaint.

Logan County Sheriff Due As U.S. Marshal

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio, reported Thursday that David M. Horn, former Logan County sheriff, would be appointed U.S. Marshall for the Southern District of Ohio, which includes Columbus, Dayton and Cincinnati.

Horn, 52, will succeed Arthur C. Elliott, a Cincinnati lawyer, and will receive a salary of $17,000 annually.

Guard Tight At Bristol

BRISTOL, England (AP)—Police tightened their guard on Bristol Lawn Tennis Club today as Britain and South Africa went into the second phase of their tension-charged Davis Cup match.

Officials believe that Thursday's sit-down on the court by two youths and two girls was only the start of a campaign by opponents of South Africa's racial policies.

A police spokesman said, "We have reason to believe that the demonstrations will be stepped up as the match goes on. We can't spot all the troublemakers when they come through the gates, but we will be waiting to jump on them as soon as they start anything."

Police carried the demonstrators away and the hold up lasted only a few minutes, but it added drama to a tense opening day in which Britain and South Africa each won one singles match.

Atlanta Smashes Reds, 12-2, Niekro Notches 15th Giants Within One Of NL West Top

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
Raise the mound! Widen the strike zone! The hitters are on the upswing again!
Atlanta's Phil Niekro, who became the major leagues' first 15-game winner with a 12-2 cakewalk over Cincinnati, was the lone National League pitcher to go the distance Thursday as batters in four cities went on a 99-hit binge.
The Braves banged out 20 hits to lead the parade, Felipe Alou, Rico Carty, Cleto Boyer and Bob Didier stroking three apiece, and cut Los Angeles' West Division lead to one-half game.
The Dodgers out-hit San Francisco 16-15 in an afternoon slugfest, but Bob Burda's three-run homer in the seventh inning gave the Giants a 14-13 victory. The third place Giants thus moved within one game of the lead.
Joe Torre and Julian Javier each smacked three hits, including a homer, as St. Louis' streaking Cardinals blitzed Philadelphia 11-3 with a 14-hit barrage. Pittsburgh and Montreal divided 20 hits in another offensive duel won by the Expos 5-4 on eighth inning doubles by Ty Cline and Coco Laboy.
Niekro, 15-7, scattered eight Cincinnati hits and contributed two himself to the Braves' attack against loser Jim Merritt and four relievers. The Braves, even.

who pulled away with a six-run flurry in the eighth, made the most of 17 singles and doubles by Didier, Alou and Gil Garrido. Burda, who replaced slugger Willie McCovey at first base during a six-run Los Angeles burst in the top of the seventh that sent the Dodgers ahead 13-11, rocked reliever Jim Brewer for the winning homer in the bottom half after singles by Jim Davenport and Ken Henderson.
Bobby Bonds drove in five early San Francisco runs with a single and his 19th and 20th homers. Little Maury Wills had four RBI for the Dodgers on two triples and a homer.
Tore delivered three St. Louis runs with a double, a single and his 15th homer and Javier poled his sixth homer after drilling a pair of singles.
The Cards, who have won four in a row and 12 of their last 14 starts, grabbed a 2-0 first inning lead, struck for four runs in the second and three more in the third, staking right-hander Mike Torrez to a 9-0 lead.
Torrez evened his record at 4-4, with relief help from Ray Washburn, after being tagged for homers by Rick Joseph and Johnny Briggs.
The Expos broke a 4-4 deadlock in the eighth on successive two-baggers by Cline and Laboy off Jim Bunning. Willie Stargell's two-run seventh inning homer had lifted the Pirates even.

Brother Vs. Brother Act NL Picks Reserve Stars, Red Honors Player Votes

By HAROLD HARRISON
Associated Press Sports Writer
CINCINNATI (AP) — Except for a catcher and one outfielder, Manager Red Schoendienst stuck to player voting today as he selected 11 players to round out the 28-man National League squad for the annual major league All-Star game.
The game will be played in Washington on July 22.
The selection of catcher Chris Cannizzaro of the expansion San Diego Padres and outfielder Rusty Staub of the Montreal Expos filled the requirement that each club in the league must be represented by one player.
Extra catchers chosen by Schoendienst will be Randy Hundley of Chicago and Cannizzaro. Johnny Bench of Cincinnati will be the starter under the vote by players, coaches and manager.
Lee May of Cincinnati and veteran Ernie Banks of Chicago will be extra first basemen to play behind starter Willie McCovey of San Francisco.
Selection of May means that for the first time in All-Star history there will be brother-against-brother in the game. Lee May's brother, Carlos, an outfielder for the Chicago White Sox, has been named to the American League squad.
Glenn Beckert of Chicago was picked for second base behind starter Felix Millan of Atlanta.
Tony Perez of Cincinnati was named for third base where Chicago's Ron Santo will be the starter.
Denis Menke of Houston was picked at shortstop. Chicago's Don Kessinger will be the starter.

Schoendienst named Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh, Willie Mays of San Francisco, Pete Rose of Cincinnati and Staub as the extra outfielders.
The starters will be Hank Aaron of Atlanta, Matty Alou of Pittsburgh and Cleon Jones of New York.
In the player-coach-manager vote Cannizzaro didn't place and Staub received only one vote.
This was the 16th time Mays had been named to an All-Star squad. He started in 14 straight games from 1957 through 1966.
He failed to win a starting berth in 1967 and 1968 but was in at the opening of the 1968 game because Rose was sidelined with an injury.
Banks will be on the squad for the 11th year and Clemente will be showing up for the ninth time.
Schoendienst previously had selected a nine-man pitching squad of Larry Dierker of Houston; Bob Gibson and Steve Carlton of St. Louis; Juan Marichal of San Francisco; Tom Seaver and Jerry Koosman of New York; Phil Niekro of Atlanta; Bill Singer of Los Angeles and Grant Jackson of Philadelphia.
Schoendienst named managers Leo Durocher of Chicago and Dave Bristol of Cincinnati to be coaches. Gil Hodges of New York will be an honorary coach.
Chicago would up with five players on the squad. Cincinnati has four, Atlanta, San Francisco and New York have three each.
St. Louis, Pittsburgh and Houston have two each and Los Angeles, Philadelphia, Montreal and San Diego have one each.

At Country Club Ladies Shine On Guest Day, Local Woman Tops Putters

It was Ladies Guest Day at East Liverpool Country Club Wednesday, and some of the local ladies turned in some low scores.
For example, Mrs. William Smith turned in a 46-52-98 gross score in the 18 Hole Medal Play in the first division for the best home flight score. Low home net score belonged to Mrs. J. R. McLaren, while Mrs. J. E. Laughlin's 32 putts was the best local women in that category.
In the second division, Mrs. W. L. McCutcheon had best gross score over the nine holes in medal play with a 55, best net belonged to Mrs. R. T. McDaniel who compiled a 58-23-35 score.

Mrs. Richard Heddleston needed just 15 putts over the nine hole layout, and that earned her honors in that division.
For the 18 holes, Mrs. Norm Nicely had the top score for the entire field with a low putting score of 27.
The number nine hole was lucky for Mrs. Robert Patterson where she won the driving contest. And on the sixth hole, Mrs. R. T. McDaniel was closest to the pin to win that honor.

FRIDAY, JULY 18, 1969 EAST LIVERPOOL REVIEW PAGE 10

The Expos won, 5-4 to even the four-game series, 2-2. Phillips had singled, but was forced at second when Angel Hermose hit into the twin killing to end the inning.

First National Falls Petrosol Captures Title In Convincing Style, 12-5

Petrosol won the Minor League championship Thursday night with a 12-5 victory over First National at Farrell Field.
The victory gave Petrosol the best of three series, two games to one. The win was also Petrosol's second straight, after First National had won the first contest.

John Croxall gave up just six hits and all of First National's runs to gain the mound victory.
As far as hitting was concerned in the game, John Davis collected three of Petrosol's nine hits, including two doubles. J. Meade add J. March chipped in with two hits, one of Meade's being a two-bagger. Jim Davis was the only First National player to manage more than one hit off Croxall; Davis had two singles. Only damaging blow off Croxall was C. McConnell's home run.

Other than that, Croxall was pretty much in control of the game in pitching Petrosol to the East Liverpool Minor League title. Croxall struck out four along the way.

Orioles Rally To Nip Tribe

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
Forgive the Oakland Athletics for feeling like they're on a treadmill to oblivion. Chasing the Minnesota Twins can be a frustrating pastime.
Oakland has won seven of eight games in the last week, including Thursday night's 8-2 victory over the Seattle Pilots. That's a good enough pace in most places but all it did for the A's was drop them another 1 1/2 games behind the rampaging Twins in the American League's West Division.
Minnesota won its ninth straight and 8th in the last 20 outings Thursday, whipping Chicago 8-5. The victory kept the Twins' West lead at a comfortable five games over the A's, who don't gain ground when they win, but can't afford to lose.
Elsewhere in the American League Thursday, Baltimore shaded Cleveland 3-2 and Detroit trimmed Washington 4-3. Boston's game at New York was rained out and the other teams were not scheduled.

hit one out in that region of Metropolitan Stadium.
Jim Kaat, who made three errors, gained credit for his 10th victory with Jerry Crider finishing up.
Brooks Robinson hammered a two-run homer in the eighth inning that moved Baltimore past Cleveland.
Until Robinson connected, Dave McNally's two-season, 15-game unbeaten string was in jeopardy. McNally, lifted for a pinch hitter in the seventh, left the game with Baltimore trailing and stood to be the losing pitcher until Robinson connected.
It marked the eighth time that McNally has been rescued from a possible loss by a late Baltimore rally. The victory went to reliever Pete Richert while Stan Williams, the victim of Robinson's homer, was the loser.
Willie Horton's three-run homer gave Detroit a quick lead against Washington but it took some stout relief pitching by Fred Lasher and Don McMahon to preserve the victory.
The Senators had closed the Tigers' lead to 4-3 when Lasher escaped a two-on, one-out jam in the eighth by retiring Ed Brinkman and Jim French.
Del Unser's one-out triple and a walk to Tim Lincecum knocked out Lasher in the ninth and McMahon came on to face Frank Howard, who had poled his 34th homer of the year earlier. But this time, the Senators' slugger bounced into a game-ending double play.

Sal Bando did a one-man job on Seattle for the A's. Bando drilled five straight hits and drove in Oakland's first four runs as the Pilots suffered their eighth straight loss.

Don Mincher homered for the third straight game for Seattle. Bando doubled one run home in the first and two more in the third. Then he singled his next three times up and raised his batting average to .291.

The Twins jumped on Chicago starter Joe Horlen and rushed six runs across in the first inning against the White Sox.

Minnesota sent 12 men to the plate in the big inning with singles by Rich Reese and Ted Uhlaender, a two-run double by George Mitterwald and a pair of bases-loaded walks driving in the runs.

Later, Harmon Killebrew smashed a tape-measure homer. Killebrew's 28th of the season crashed into the center field backdrop, 456 feet from home plate. It marked the second time Killebrew has reached the backdrop in the nine years that the Twins have played in Minnesota. No other hitter has ever

Mid-Am Schools In Dark About Marshall Question

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — When the Mid-American Conference's Council of Presidents meets in executive session Wednesday to decide the fate of Marshall University it will do so in secret.

The Council holds all of its meetings that way. It has for years, much to the chagrin of news media.

There was no announcement when the Council ordered Marshall to reply to alleged irregularities last May 24 at Kalamazoo, Mich. until four days later.

MAC Commissioner Robert C. James, replying to persistent questioning from newsmen who suspected something was in the wind at the Kalamazoo meeting, said Marshall wasn't even on the Council agenda.

Dr. Roland Nelson, president of Marshall, said he felt no urgent matters were to be discussed after he telephoned James before the meeting. So he sent an assistant, Olen Jones.

"The next word I got was my assistant was asked to leave the room, and that's when they passed the motion.

"It has not been my experience that university presidents treat other presidents in such cavalier fashion. I prefer to think there might have been lapses in communication."

The bizarre manner in which the Council handled the Marshall case is further substantiated by the fact that few, if any of the athletic directors present at Kalamazoo were kept abreast of developments.

"I didn't know anything had happened until I read about it in the newspapers," Bowling Green Athletic Director Doyt Perry said later.

There have been other incidents of communication breakdowns between the conference and news media and between the presidents and their own athletic directors.

Nelson and other Marshall officials emphatically deny any wrongdoing. If the school cannot satisfactorily reply to the charges of irregularities, there are persistent rumors that Marshall is prepared to blow the whistle on other league schools allegedly committing infractions.

And if Marshall clears the irregularities hurdle, it still has to submit strong evidence of a sound building program.

Although not publicly disclosed, reports from Huntington indicate the school is prepared to add 10,000 seats to Fairfield Stadium and improve the field with a synthetic all-weather turf in addition to doubling the number of on-campus tennis courts, constructing an all-weather track and building a 10,000 to 12,000 seat basketball arena-coliseum.

James said the Council meeting could require more than one session, at separate dates, and admits he hasn't "the vaguest idea" what will happen.

If Marshall succumbs to the ouster movement, it likely would make a pitch to join the Southern Conference.

And the MAC, which hasn't had a team change in 14 years, would find itself a six-member league consisting of Ohio U., Miami, Toledo, Kent State, Bowling Green and Western Michigan.

Such a development could signal a drive to bring Cincinnati, which has quit the Missouri Valley, and West Virginia, once of the Southern Conference, into the league.

Jackson Hurls One-Hitter For Lawson's

Mike Jackson struck out seven batters and pitched a one-hitter Thursday night as Lawson's whipped Super Foods, 8-1, in a Wellsville Babe Ruth League game.

Jackson was never in serious trouble in pitching Lawson's to victory, and to make his night even more of a success, the pitcher chimed in with a double to aid his team's hitting attack.

Bob Headley homered to pace Lawson's, and Butch Roberts added two hits.

Pete DeFenze was the losing hurler for Super Foods.

In tonight's action, Merchants play at Sevek.

The last tripleheader in baseball was played October 2, 1920, between Cincinnati and Pittsburgh. Cincinnati won two of the three games.

H.I.H.S. Scores

Two romps and a close contest were the results of H.I.H.S. action Thursday evening.

Hammondsville Red Sox rolled over the Irontide Indians, 21-2 behind the strong pitching of Scott Champion. Nathan Hogue was the losing hurler for the Indians.

Another Hammondsville team, the Yankees, also had success last night, as they defeated the Salineville Cubs, 12-2. Ricky Workman had little trouble winning that ball game; Randy Martin took the loss.

And Highlandtown Apaches held back that town's Colts, 8-6, with Danny Talbot getting credit for the victory, and Tommy Stewart taking the mound loss.

Hookstown Homers Subdue Hanover

It was Home Run Derby night last night in the Hookstown-Hanover game, a contest played in the Senior Division in the South Side league.

Hookstown won the game quite easily, 31-9, behind a eight-home run attack.

Winning pitcher Stan Pate and Larry Anderson both had two home runs in the lopsided tilt, but that wasn't all. Add to that home runs by Terry Dawson, Steve Trimble, Steve Potts, and Ed Shaffer, and the result is, a 31-run night for Hookstown.

Bill Scott of Hanover also got in on the homer act, by clouting one in a losing cause.

Cook that custard mixture over simmering, not boiling, water if you want a very smooth result.

Can You Separate TV From Environment?

There's a letter from David Bowen, a producer of theatrical films in Hollywood whom I do not know which poses an intriguing question: Can television be properly appraised apart from the environment in which it must function? Bowen's thoughtful letter is concerned with critics of this wind-blown theater, particularly in light of the current move to invite reviewers to see programs and comment on them in advance.

Cecil Smith

"It isn't possible," writes Bowen, "under typical review conditions to evaluate the effect of any program accurately in booth tube."

He explains: "I don't work in TV, but, thanks to a schedule mixup, I got to a lab to check an answer print of one of my pictures just as they were starting through a 'Bonanza.' I don't watch 'Bonanza,' I don't especially like 'Bonanza.' But this show, up on a big screen, clear and bright, with good sound, in a screening environment, with a small audience, with no distractions, no kids, no beer handy, no toilet 20 feet away, no commercials — this thing hooked me.

"Later I made a special point of catching that episode on the set at home. Little reaction; in real time, by a listener, so does a recollection of that projection room screening.

"THIS LEADS to another point," Bowen went on. "Everyone decries the quality of the staple TV dramatic show. Still, I wonder: To be even moderately effective under the really adverse conditions of most home viewing, don't these shows have to be considerably better, point for point, than their theatrical equivalent viewed under far better conditions?"

"I've reached the conclusion that a lot of what people take for granted on TV is really a lot better than it's given credit for. Some shows come to mind on 'The Wild Wild West,' 'Mod Squad' and some of the early 'Invaders' that, in theaters, would have been real grabbers.

"PERHAPS what all this means," writes Bowen, "is that no idea to be expressed, or the summation of technique employed to express it, is independent of the environment of the recipient.

"Just as music doesn't exist until it is played and heard, in real time, by a listener, so does a film (or tape) not really come into existence until a mind receives its message. Lots has been written on the Medium; now maybe it's time to look at the environment in which it must function."

Which leads Bowen to the conclusion that networks that refuse to preview their shows may be "losing more than they know — their likelihood in getting good grades (from critics) in advance showings must be much greater than if they rely on on-the-air evaluation."

I'M NOT SURE I go along with Bowen's conclusions.

It seems to me a critic has the obligation to see a work to be reviewed under the best possible conditions; thus a movie reviewer does not see films amid popcorn-gulping teenagers and fat women stepping on his feet; a book critic does not take into account reading the book in bad light on a swaying train.

Nor do I feel the image of the beer-swilling pop and the quarreling kids grouped around the living room set is as representative of television as it once was. The two-set and three-set household is becoming as common as the two-car family.

So is the selective viewer, which is the primary reason that advance reviews of television programs can offer the sort of service that book reviews, play reviews, movie reviews and the like provide so that one can decide whether to spend that precious commodity, time, on it.

FURTHERMORE, a work of art, I believe, transcends its environment.

Thus, "Citizen Kane" on television, festooned with commercials, is still a masterpiece; the Mona Lisa painted on an ash can still would enthrall.

Though works of art in television are as rare as they are anywhere else, it would be of value for people to know when one happens.

MIGRAINE

Q. Is migraine inherited? I have attacks and so did my mother and grandmother.
A. Many migraine sufferers have relatives who also have migraine. It is not known whether heredity is involved or whether migraine is a reaction which is "learned" from an older and respected relative who suffered from the condition.

"SOFT-SPOT" CLOSURE

Q. My baby is now four months old and the soft spot in her head has already gone away. Isn't it early for this to occur?

A. Early closure of the fontanel ("soft spot"), although unusual, is quite consistent with normal development. However, it is a wise precaution to have the baby checked from time to time by a physician.

Mom Becomes 'Censor'

Dear Ann Landers: Last night my mother and I had an argument. One word led to another and she said pretty cutting things.

When my mother starts to yell the best thing to do is not answer, and get busy with something. So I went to my desk and began to write a letter.

Mom came up behind me and screamed, "You're writing your father, aren't you?" (They're divorced.) I said, "Yes." Then she shouted, "You'll not be allowed to mail that letter until I've read it. I'm not going to have you telling lies on me."

Ann, I didn't even mention my mother's name in the letter, yet she stood there until I finished writing and then insisted that I hand it over. Is this fair? Isn't a 15-year-old entitled to some privacy? My mother says as long as I live under her roof she has the right to know everything I say and do. Is she correct? BUGGED.

Dear Bugged: Any person who is old enough to write should be permitted to mail a letter without censorship. Your mother sounds like a sick woman. If she hasn't seen a doctor recently for a physical checkup, she should do so.

In the meantime, be patient. Every home needs at least one mature person, and you may have to be that one in yours.

By

Ann

Landers

When I was in labor with our second child, my husband left me in the hospital to go see his brother who had had a tooth pulled. It's been that way from the day we married. Brothers first — wife second.

My sisters-in-law are as fed up as I am. What's wrong with these men? What can we do about it? — FOURTH FIDLES.

Dear Fid: The brothers are emotional adolescents. They've never emerged from childhood, and they probably never will.

Outfox them by planning some interesting activities. If you women bought tickets to the theater or arranged movie dates with nonrelatives, the boys won't play so much gin rummy.

Use some imagination. The only difference between a rat and a grave is the dimensions.

Ladies' Man

Dear Ann: You keep printing letters from girls who have to punch guys in the mouth to keep them in line. What about guys who want a nice, respectable evening, but the girls have different ideas?

I hope I don't sound like a jerk but in the last two months I've dated three such chicks. Funny thing is, Ann, I'm not much to look at and I'm not the type you'd think would turn a girl on. Yet I keep running into sexpots with far-out ideas. Any suggestions? — J.P.

Dear J. P.: I assume you're not putting me on, so I'll answer in earnest. There are plenty of aggressive dames around and they usually go for quiet guys like you. My advice is head for a crowded place, make it an early evening and lose the doll's phone number.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Moore's Tax Incentive Plan Not Expected To Pass Now

CHARLESTON — Several state legislators predict a tax incentive program proposed by Gov. Arch A. Moore Jr. will not pass during the upcoming special legislative session, but Moore insists West Virginia can not tolerate a delay.

"With 5,000 jobs at stake, along with millions of investment dollars for industrial development touching practically every county in this state, the proposal has all the merit to get this state moving industrially," Moore said.

Speaker Ivor F. Boiarsky and Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman William T. Brotherton both Kanawha County Democrats, were among a group of Democratic and Republican legislators who indicated Thursday that the special session may not act on the proposal.

They said that a lack of time to study the proposal, not major opposition against it, could cause the legislature to put the measure into an interim committee for study.

"I consider this the most urgent matter of the call. It being well recognized that industrial development and job opportunities in West Virginia lag far behind and with the further evaluation that as a state we rank 50th in industrial development, I don't believe the people or the legislature would delay the investment of one job - creating dollar," the governor said.

Brotherton said the proposal may have to be studied to determine how it will affect state revenues.

"At first blush, I'm opposed to it. But if the governor can convince me that it can create new jobs then I wouldn't be unalterably opposed to it," he said.

Moore's tax incentive proposal would allow an industry credit investment in new plants or additions that create jobs against its Business and Occupation tax liability to the state.

Thief Gets Coins In Home's Entry

Howard Hughes of 1251 Pennsylvania Ave. told police Thursday a thief took $6 to $7 in 50-cent pieces from his home Wednesday after forcing entry by removing the pins from hinges on a storm door.

Hughes also told officers a coil of wire was stolen from his vehicle Wednesday night or Thursday morning and the same person cut one of the cables on the battery in the vehicle in an apparent attempt to steal it.

Meanwhile, William Tucker of the Tucker Auto Wrecking Co. at 2260 Harvey Ave. reported to police Thursday afternoon two unidentified men stole several pounds of copper from the scrap metal yard. Tucker said the men had told him they had some copper to sell. When he asked to see the metal, they said they would "have to go and get it," he related. On the way out of the yard, they stole the copper, Tucker said.

The Legion's vast programs of Americanism, child welfare and national security are also a source of pride for every Legionnaire," declared National Vice Comdr. John A. Jones of Weirton, W. Va. 100 On Hand For Reunion

Some 100 attended the Wesley and Jennie Mayhew Herron family reunion at the Point Pleasant Church, New Cumberland.

Six of the 10 children were present — Charles Herron of New Manchester, Celia Bailey of East Liverpool, Verna McSwegin of Chester, Hattie Fullerton of Florence, Ray McCauland of Washington, Pa., and George Herron of Chester. Eula Deemer, who is a patient in a nursing home, was the only one unable to attend.

James Herron of Hardins Run was chairman for the outing. Verna McSwegin was surprised with a birthday cake in honor of her 84th birthday, which was July 15.

Mrs. Campbell Chambers of New Cumberland recounted the history of the old homestead where the Campbells still reside.

John Herron of Hookstown gave the family history.

The next reunion will be next July. Mabel Herron of Hookstown and Alice Chambers of Hardins Run were elected co-chairmen for the affair, which also will be held at the Point Pleasant Church.

Hope is represented by the anchor in Christian symbolism.

Today In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration says it received reports of 2,230 near-collisions in mid-air last year including 1,128 classified as hazardous.

It added, in its report Thursday, that a "minimum estimate of four hazardous" aircraft near-misses occurred for every one that was reported to it.

The FAA, in an effort to gather reliable statistics for the first time, had encouraged pilots to report the narrowly averted collisions—and had promised no penalty would be given to anyone filing a near-miss report.

The FAA said that, in the reports it received, almost 100,000 passengers were on large transport aircraft and about 5,000 passengers and crew in non-scheduled flights.

The agency noted there were about 52.3 million flight operations in the United States last year—an average of 25,000 flights for each near-collision. The 35 mid-air crashes last year killed 68 persons, the FAA said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Philip A. Hart today proposed a revenue reform bill with a tax shelter for low-income and middle-income families.

The Michigan Democrat estimated it would give a tax break of $6.7 billion to these persons. He added it would pick up $17 billion by tightening loopholes that now favor the wealthy.

The Hart bill would offer four-member families maximum savings of $165 if income is $10,000 annually, $263 if income is $12,000 and $345 if income is $15,000. Taxes for such families making $5,000 a year would be reduced to 42 per cent.

The measure would eliminate tax preferences on capital gains, would limit mineral depletion deduction to the cost of property, would repeal the 7 per cent investment tax credit and eliminate accelerated depreciation on real estate except for low or moderate income housing.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration's school desegregation statement marked the start of a new effort to "get the job done," says Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Robert H. Finch.

"The 1969-70 school guidelines will remain in force," he told a group of educators in a speech Thursday. "There will be no renegotiation of agreed plans. There will be no concessions granted except for compelling, bona fide reasons."

Meanwhile, he issued a denunciation of any federal role in curbing campus disorders. Finch said he and Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell sent a letter to the congressional leadership Thursday stating "our unalterable opposition to certain techniques that have been proposed."

He added: "We have placed the burden for coping with ferment and undertaking educational reform squarely where it belongs—with the authorities on each local campus."

Junior Editors Quiz on SHAKESPEARE

QUESTION: What was William Shakespeare's real name?

ANSWER: English records show that on April 26, 1564, a child named William Shakespeare was baptized in the church of Stratford-on-Avon. He married in 1582, left Stratford in 1584, went to London and became an actor. They were well received and the author made enough money to buy several houses. He was 52 when he died, a well-known but not famous man, perhaps because his writings were only in manuscript. After his death, as these works were printed and circulated around the world, people realized that here was perhaps the greatest literary genius ever known. The familiar quotations above are a few of the countless words and phrases Shakespeare originated. Because of the range of his knowledge, people began to wonder how a simple country actor could have learned so much about life. Some suspected that the brilliant, worldly Earl of Oxford may have written the plays and poems and, not wishing his name to be attached to the then vulgar world of the theater, hired the actor William Shakespeare to appear to be the author. Most experts discount this and similar theories. Genius, they claim, can flash up from any social level. So the answer to our question seems to be, William Shakespeare.

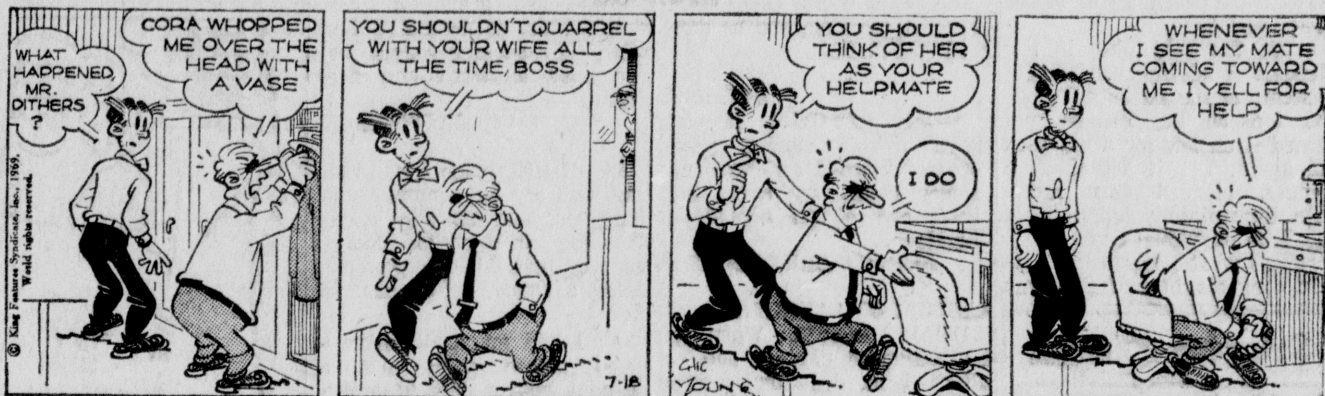

(Fran Olsen of Newkirk, Okla., wins a prize for this question. You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

Today's highlight in history. On this date in the year 64 A.D., the great fire of Rome began. The legend is that Emper-

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Faster Instant Puddings

DEAR FOLKS: You know these new instant puddings — the kind that say pour milk in a bowl, empty in contents of box and beat, which calls for getting out your mixer, beaters, etc.?

Well, the other night I was so tired I just didn't want to get out my mixer, look for the two beaters and wash all of it. So what did I do?

I put the cold milk in my blender. I slowly poured the contents of the package in, put the top of the blender on, turned it on low for a bit, then off again. Let it set about a minute, blended once more, then immediately poured it in my little individual cups.

Here's what I learned: It coagles in half the time and I didn't have two egg beaters to wash or the mixer to drag out and put away.

Immediately, I filled the blender half full of water, put a few drops of detergent in it and turned it on and off real quick. I poured the sudsy water down the drain, rinsed it and put it back where it belonged.

The result was a clean kitchen, quick pudding, and no dirty bowl or beaters.

HELOISE

DEAR HELOISE: If you have trouble zipping your dresses in back and have no zipper chain, try using the hook end of an adjustable necklace.

BERTHA CRUTCHFIELD

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE: When you buy Jalapeno peppers and eat all of them, don't throw away that juice.

Try putting thin slices of pickles in the juice and let them soak. You've got the bestest and hottest pickles in town.

MARQUITO HERNANDEZ

Please take this as a letter of laughter unless you like really good hot food. I bought it. I tried it and I nearly died with it.

The pickles are the greatest. But be sure you have a tall glass of ice water when you taste them. They are red hot, just like Jalapeno peppers.

HELOISE

DEAR HELOISE: My tip is for an easy but attractive bedspread for children, or a new bride who has many other things to buy before purchasing spreads:

I sew extra wide bias tape around the sides and bottom (the top will be tucked over the pillows) of a new sheet. Then I center the sheet and sew more of the same tape around it where it drops over the edge of the bed, then monogram or initial the center of the sheet.

I used a white sheet for the first one I made.

Recently, I made a darker spread in a solid color. For the dust ruffle, I used the striped coordinate sheet, cutting it into strips and gathering it onto a twin bed sheet (an old one will do).

Now I have a new set that is easy to wash.

These are grand for children's beds, as no matter how often they become soiled, they are easy to wash and keep fresh.

KATHY LEVEBACK

DEAR HELOISE: I was visiting with my ten-month-old daughter, and as she started crawling about on the floor, I realized that I had forgotten to bring a change of clothing for her.

As I had an appointment to keep before going home, I thought what a sight those dirty-kneed overalls would be, so

I picked her up and turned the overalls inside out.

When it was time to go, I just turned them back to the right side and she looked fresh as a daisy for our appointment.

MRS. G. I. Too bad all little boys' T-shirts can't be done this way too, eh?

Grads' Salaries Up Survey Points Out

CHICAGO (AP) — A survey of trends in employment of college and university graduates in business and industry shows that there is a greater demand for them — and at record salaries.

Reports from 132 companies indicated they plan to employ a total of 2,251 women graduates in 1969, compared with 1,871 last year, a 20 per cent increase.

Men with bachelor degrees in engineering will be offered an average of $818 a month, compared with $776 in 1968; men in sales $669, whereas in 1968 they started with $635.

Young Driver Fined After Oakland Crash

A young driver was fined $10 and costs Thursday in Municipal Court on a charge of crashing a traffic signal as an aftermath of a collision at 6:58 this morning at Pennsylvania and Oakland Aves.

William E. Hildebrand, 18, who was listed at addresses on Railroad St. and in Dixonville, was cited by Patrolman Orin C. Smith after a collision between his 1966 four-door sedan and a 1960 two-door operated by Susan M. Wright, 19, of 1321 Erie St.
